

"PRAYED HARD" AS BATTLE RAGED; "GOT OFF LUCKY"

Wounded Private Writes That American Troops Piled Up
Germans a Dozen High.

A description of fighting around Chateau Thierry on July 15 and of the good care taken of American wounded was contained in a letter from Private Hugh Haggerty, of Company F, 165th Infantry, received by his mother, Mrs. May Haggerty of No. 922 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, to-day, ten minutes before the arrival of a War Department telegram to the effect that he had been severely wounded.

Haggerty's letter was written on July 18, three days after he was hit, and he said he was only slightly wounded. The letter read:

"I must say, mother, it was a terrible day for the Germans. They attacked us about 6 o'clock and we just heaped them up a dozen high. There were a number of our boys wounded and killed, but the number did not compare with that of the Germans. Their dead were heaped up so high they could not advance. The French and American soldiers drove them back and later we occupied what had been their first line.

"When the dawn was breaking they sent up about fifty aeroplanes. They shot machine guns at us and dropped bombs in our trenches. Well, mother, I just prayed hard, saying an act of contrition, and asked the blessed Virgin to help me. My prayers were answered, and I kept fighting and got away lucky."

Albert Bowker, killed in action on July 15, formerly lived at No. 146 West 101st Street with his sister, Mrs. Mrs. Burke. He enlisted in the old 69th immediately after the United States entered the war and went to France as a member of Company H, 165th Infantry. The War Department message announcing his death was received by his sister yesterday.

Corpl. James S. McCready, Company E, 165th Infantry, named in the casualty list as wounded in action on July 15, formerly was manager of the Bland Textile Company, No. 377 Broadway, New York. A War Department telegram saying that the seriousness of the wound has not yet been determined was sent to his brother at Tulsa, Okla., and then telegraphed back to Miss Elisha A. Lumb, No. 537 Seventh Avenue, Long Island City, McCready's fiancée.

Lieut. Harrison E. Hornbeck, reported as severely wounded, formerly lived at No. 34 Cliff Avenue, Yonkers. The War Department message to his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Hornbeck, says he received his wound on July 18. He is a member of the famous Ninth Infantry. Hornbeck was born at Port Jervis, N. Y., thirty years ago. Before the war he was employed as a draftsman by the New York Central. He won his commission as second lieutenant at the first Plattsburg training camp, went back the next year and earned promotion to a first lieutenancy. He has a brother, Harold, in the 362d Engineers.

Douglas McKenzie of No. 736 West 181st Street reported as wounded in France, was attached to the 165th Infantry and had been in France for a year. Previous to joining the 7th Regiment, with which he saw service on the Mexican border, McKenzie, who is thirty-five years old, was employed by the Tyson Ticket Agency. A letter to his wife, dated July 4, said that he had seen much trench action, but up till that time he had come out unscathed. A chum who had come over from France in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan drive told Mrs. McKenzie, the wounded soldier's wife, that her husband had saved his life and that of two other comrades in the trenches.

The golden stripe for Greenpoint, Brooklyn, was announced to-day when news reached the home of Mrs. Mary A. McGowan, No. 517 Leonard Street, in that district, of the wounding of her grandson, Thomas A. McGowan of the 165th, formerly of the 89th Regiment.

Lieut. Frank J. McConnell was killed in action on July 22, according to a telegram sent to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. McConnell, No. 509 Chestnut Street, Richmond Hill, L. I. Lieut. McConnell was a member of Battery E, 7th Field Artillery. He was twenty-one years old and was a sophomore at Princeton University when he went to the Plattsburg training camp last year.

The name of Carl T. Wetz, whose father is of German birth, has appeared on three American casualty lists, but it will appear no more, for on to-day's list Wetz is named as killed in action. He used to live at No. 3265 Third Avenue, though the present address of his parents is No. 1090 Forest Avenue. Three years ago he joined the 28th Infantry.

Corpl. Guido d'Apostino, Company C, 9th Infantry, left his nine-year-old son with the boy's grandmother when he went away to war. This was because the child's mother was dead. To-day the name of d'Apostino is on the casualty list as severely wounded in action, July 18—the second battle of the Marne. His mother, Mrs. Carmello d'Apostino, No. 1418 Oakley Avenue, suffered an apoplectic stroke when the news came to her. She is in a critical condition.

TOO HOT TO GET MARRIED.

Middle-Aged Slacker Drive on License Bureau Halls—No Brides.

The heat barrage to-day halted the middle-aged slacker drive on the Marriage License Bureau. Up to noon there has been issued only 40 marriage licenses and the horizon was clear of brides.

"Seems it is too hot to-day even to get married," said City Clerk Seely.

TWO TROLLEY CRASHES CAUSE TIE-UP ON BRIDGE

One Man Slightly Injured as Front of One Car Is Smashed by Another.

A crash between two trolleys on the Brooklyn Bridge and a second accident, in which one of the cars jumped the track, caused a thirty minute tie-up during the rush hours this morning.

John Brennan of No. 325 100th Street, Brooklyn, was injured slightly, because, it is said, the brake failed to hold a Putnam Avenue car which smashed into a Flatbush Avenue car. The front of the Putnam Avenue car was smashed and the rear platform of the Flatbush Avenue car badly damaged. The cars were towed to Brooklyn.

When they reached the Brooklyn end of the bridge the Putnam Avenue car jumped the track.

LEWIS BLAMES WHITMAN FOR SUBWAY DISCOMFORT

Public Service Commission, He Says, Devotes Its Time to Governor's Political Interests.

All the blame for public discomfort in the subway H system was put squarely up to Gov. Whitman to-day by Attorney General Merton E. Lewis, his rival for the Governorship in the coming primaries. In a prepared statement Mr. Lewis blames the Governor for "the lamentable conditions disclosed the other night when the Public Service Commission undertook to put the H system into operation."

The commission, Mr. Lewis says, is completely demoralized. Its failure is due to the fact that members devote more of their time to politics and to the Governor's political interests than to the installation of the new system. "The chief object of its members," Mr. Lewis says, "appears to be to promote the Governor's gubernatorial and Presidential aspirations. The present commission is merely a political machine."

Gov. Whitman is in town. It is understood he will reply to the Lewis attack this afternoon.

Sinclair's Yacht Sinks on Fire.

The pleasure yacht Sinco, the property of H. F. Sinclair, an oil importer with offices at No. 129 Broadway, caught fire to-day while lying in Pelham Bay at Jacob's Shipyard at the foot of Pilot Street, City Island. A back fire of the carburetor was given as the cause, this igniting the gasoline fuel tanks. For a time it looked as if the other light craft lying by were in danger. But Capt. William Kennedy, with chemical engine from Company 70, soon had the blaze out. The Sinco which is a 50-ton express cruiser, was only slightly damaged.

Statue of Liberty Boat Service Daily

From West 129th Street.
On and after to-morrow the uptown public will have a daily boat service of their own, direct to the Statue of Liberty, leaving West 129th Street at 11 A. M., 2, 5 and 8 P. M. This line will be under the management now operating the downtown boat which leaves Battery Pier every hour, on the hour. Visitors are received by Miss Liberty free of charge, between the hours of 9 A. M. and 7 P. M. The evening moonlight trips from West 129th Street at 8 o'clock, or from Battery Pier at 8:30 o'clock, offer a delightful sail around the harbor, and a chance for relief from the heat of the city during the warm weather.

Death Leap From Bridge.

A man, believed by the police to be victim of the heat, leaped from the central span of Manhattan Bridge during the rush hour to-day and was lost in the East River.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulitised cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulitised cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last every one in the family for months.—Adv.
